BORN IN NAY

TO THE INNOCENT MINKS

BORN IN NAY is the anagram of NONBINARY.

I'm talking about a precise identity. The nonbinary person is me, and this short text does not contain any metaphor.

Nay means No in an election: I mean that my vote was NAY despite the common rules of the male point of view I was raised with. I'm a male, but I disavow the ludicrous education I was taught to consider normal for my gender. I discovered that the female world was friendly and I thought it was my own world. That's why I loved women at first glance. It was my healthy way to love myself, of course. I know that I am an odd type of woman: the less reliable one, but not the last one. Now I do live&love this fantastic and dyonisian form of homosexuality: a Fe/Male in love with a Fe/Male.

The pictures of this book are pure evidence and these lines are not a fiction. I, the skilled author, know that our agile art of persuasion must not be a lame way to mask simple things.
